We opted for the body massage and spent the next 60 minutes listening to the strong flowing water below us, while the therapists worked their magic to let go the bad energy from our body and adding the positive vibe. With the combination of stretching, acupressure and special massage technique that reflects human instinct to touch and awaken your senses. The power of touch widely believes in relieving pain and healing sickness.

And it must have worked, as we needed to be woken up to turn over, but most importantly the pressure and expertise from the therapist's fingers could be keenly felt and was both relaxing and muscle pain relieving. The great combination of pressure and soothing strokes left us feeling totally relaxed when the treatments finished. The notion of means is to pursuit mindfulness and sense of wellbeing, it helps to rediscover a new you.
